

ONE DAY CONFERENCE

14 December 2017

30 Euston Square, London

NUCLEAR SECURITY LEADERSHIP AND PROFESSIONALISM

EVENT DESCRIPTION:

The 2nd annual Nuclear Security event held with the World Institute for Nuclear Security will build on the highly successful first conference in 2016, which clearly acknowledged the importance of nuclear security organisation integration.

This full day conference will explore the latest security threats to businesses operating in the nuclear sector and provide delegates with the latest understanding of what tomorrow's challenges are and how to maintain resilience against the ever-changing threat and risk profiles.

WHO SHOULD ATTEND?

This is a forum for board members, directors, industry leaders and security professionals to participate in expert conversations related to the latest developments and challenges in nuclear security, regulation and resilience within organisations.

PROGRAMME SUMMARY

LEADING NUCLEAR SECURITY AS AN INTEGRATED ACTIVITY:

Boards and Executives say that they now 'get' Nuclear Security, but how does this translate into action and what does success look like? How do Industry, Government, the regulator, and the supply chain work together to strengthen security?

A CHANGING AND CHALLENGING THREAT LANDSCAPE:

What do we mean by 'blended threats'? How can the nuclear sector address this challenge effectively, whilst maintaining a pragmatic perspective on the evolving threat landscape? What is sufficient from regulatory and commercial perspectives, what is the difference, and who will be accountable?

WORKING TOGETHER: Security is a critical matter for all professionals. What skillsets and new employee engagement approaches will work effectively with the business, and what are the expectations of everyone working in or alongside the nuclear industry? How do we communicate threats and security-relevant information to staff? How do we increase security awareness across the nuclear sector irrespective of the specific project.

Many high profile speakers confirmed.
